2. Changes in procedures to improve Rx services: Story By: Maj. Jimmy Lee, IACH PHARMACY CHIEF

In order to provide better service and decrease wait times, Irwin Army Community Hospital patients will request refill prescriptions in advance by phone. An online prescription refill option will be available soon. Beginning Feb. 1, 2011, all patients will either use the automated prescription refill system or IACH pharmacy website when requesting prescription refills. Of the 404,896 prescriptions filled in FY2010, 298,332 or 73.68 percent were filled at the main IACH pharmacy. The remaining 106,564 or 26.32 percent of prescriptions were filled at outlying pharmacies including 14.73 percent at the Post Exchange, 7.65 percent at the Consolidated Medical Troop Clinic and 3.94 percent at the Farrelly Health Clinic. With that many prescriptions dispensed, it is important to streamline the process to improve customer service and wait times. Prescription refills requested prior to noon will be ready for pick up when the pharmacy opens the next duty day. Refills requested after noon will be ready for pick up in two duty-days. Prescription refills not picked up after seven days from the scheduled pick-up date will be returned to stock and will need to be reordered. Contact the desired pharmacy location to pick up refills, obtain answers to questions or get additional help with refills. Prescription refills may not be requested more than 14 days from the next refill due date. IACH automated prescription refill system is easy to use with a touch-tone telephone. Patients can request a prescription refill, receive information about medication and hear the pharmacy hours of operation using the APRS.

- To refill a prescription or access information, select the desired pharmacy pick up location by pressing the corresponding number on a touch-tone phone.
- Listen and choose an item from the main menu by following the simple instructions, or follow the step-by-step guide below. Calls can be ended at any time by hanging up.
- When prompted, enter the last four numbers of the sponsor's social security number followed by the pound (#) sign.
- Enter the six or seven digit prescription number followed by the pound sign (#). The prescription number is located in the upper left hand corner of the prescription label. For example, if a prescription number is RXR1234567, enter 1234567.

Civilian prescriptions will be dropped off, processed and picked up at the PX pharmacy. The patient's valid military identification card must be presented to pharmacy staff when picking up prescriptions. This applies to all beneficiaries, 10 years of age and older, including spouses, parents, children or guardians. This policy is in accordance with AR 40-3 Chapter 11-13(j) and AR 40-66 Chapter 2-6 requiring proper identification of patients and privacy of all patient prescription records. By presenting the patient's valid military ID when requesting a prescription, the bearer of the ID demonstrates the patient has given permission for the person to obtain the prescription. To refill prescriptions, call 785-239-PHAR (7427) or for more information visit: <http://iach.amedd.army.mil/sections/clinics/pharmacyMain.asp>.

22. Holiday Finance Tips: If you do all your holiday shopping on a credit card, you actually can spend two to three times as much, once you figure in interest and finance charges. Here are some ways to avoid holiday debt. 1) PAY WITH CASH. Spend money you already have: Use debit cards, cash, or write checks. 2) Make a budget - not a per person budget, but an overall budget for all of your Holiday spending and compare it with the amount you have available to spend. 3) Keep track of how much you have spent on gifts, dining and entertainment. 4) Make a list of all the people who you would like to give gifts to, and rank people on the list. 5) Know what you want to buy, and for whom, before you go shopping. 6) Shop alone when you're doing the bulk of your gift buying. It will help you avoid impulse spending. Don't shop while you're tired or hungry. 7) Steer clear of high price fad items and instead buy practical gifts that last longer 8) Think before using your credit card to take advantage of "holiday bargains."
23. DOD LAUNCHES NEW WEBSITE FOR YOUTH: The Department of Defense's Joint Advertising Market Research and Studies (JAMRS) program announced it has launched www.myfuture.com, a new website to help America's youth explore opportunities for their future. Myfuture.com provides comprehensive, unbiased information about career, education and military options for young people, ages 16 to 24. Powered by information from the Departments of Defense, Education and Labor, myfuture.com provides young people with a resource that helps them formulate a plan for their future by establishing goals and identifying and understanding the steps necessary to reach those goals. The website brings clarity to the process by connecting visitors with factual, practical information and tools. "People may wonder why the DoD is launching an exploration website for young people who are considering their options for the future," said JAMRS Director Matt Boehmer. "The fact is, we found existing career and/or college exploration websites not affiliated with the DoD provide little, if any, coverage of the military and its career opportunities."

Myfuture.com helps inform young adults who might not normally consider service about the benefits of a military career. By placing the military side by side with college and career opportunities, the website allows them to explore all possibilities and gain insight into each option. We also make the point that the three do not have to be mutually exclusive."

Myfuture.com provides a breadth and balance of information not available anywhere else, allowing visitors to discover possibilities and opportunities that appeal to their own unique personality and goals. The website provides details on more than 1,000 civilian and military career fields and nearly 7,000 accredited colleges and trade schools. In addition to college admissions details, average salaries and employment trends, myfuture.com provides advice on everything from taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test to interviewing for a first job to preparing for basic military training. Step-by-step planning checklists are also provided as a guide for users, and favorite job and school information can be saved for return visits. For more information, visit www.myfuture.com. The National Military Family Association applauds DoD for working with the Department of Education and Department of Labor on producing a balanced discussion of careers, college and military options for teens and young adults.

Concert Pianist Performs in Hometown of Junction City

Works by Beethoven, Chopin, and Schumann

Internationally acclaimed pianist Gary Kirkpatrick is recognized throughout the world as one of America's foremost musicians.

He was born in Manhattan and grew up in Junction City, where he graduated from Junction City Junior/Senior High School in 1958. Gary received a full scholarship to study at the renowned Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York where he graduated with highest honors. He completed his studies with distinction at the great Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts in Vienna where his work with celebrated pianist Dieter Weber broadened his range and artistry. While in Vienna, Gary gave many recitals, made recordings, and won top prizes at the International Beethoven Competition, the Stepanov Piano Competition and the International Piano Competition in Jaen Spain.

He made his New York debut at Carnegie Recital Hall in New York City where the New York Times praised his "high caliber performance and musicianship" as having "covered a wide gamut of moods with varied paces within a unified architectural concept." Frequent New York engagements followed, most notably at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall, where he was lauded by Musical America as a pianist with a "bright colorful tone, forthright, honest musicianship, and above all, a welcome acuity of timing." Gary has taught at the University of Kansas, the Interlochen Center for the Arts, and is presently on the faculty of William Paterson University in Wayne, New Jersey.

Gary Kirkpatrick will be performing at the C.L. Hoover Opera House on Friday, November 19, 2010 at 7:30pm. Tickets are $17.50 for adults, $16.50 for military, and $8.50 for students, and may be purchased in person at 135 W. ### Local Teen Leaders

Seven students from Junction City High School have been attending the MFLC support/deployment group since its inception in 2009. Most have been military dependents since birth and have struggled with the demands of being a military child. Topics such as frequent moves, deployment and family separation are common subjects discussed at group time. One student had a particularly tough year when both parents were deployed, and she was being reared by her step-grandpa. Group members supported their friend and offered empathy that only another military child can offer. All students shared stories with each other and with the MFLC in their special group time, affectionately named the "Brat Chat" by the students.

Brat Chat meets 2-3 times a week at the Junction City High school Career Campus and 1-2 weekly at the Freshman success Academy. The 7 teens at the Junction City High school Career Campus never miss a chance to get together to chat about their lives. In early September the group started talking about gifts, talents and abilities they have been given and how they use these talents to cope with the demands of military life. When talking about talents, gifts and abilities, the students decided to use what they had been given to serve others. One teen noted that she believes she better understands why some people call our military personnel "service men and women". They serve. Much like their parents, these teens want to make the choice to serve.

All 7 teens have a deep concern for other military children, and many had concerns for the welfare of animals. As one teen put it, "when I get to thinking about my life, I think about how lucky I am to have parents, parents that are proud to serve our nation. Some kids have no one". Another teen talked about the dogs he had to leave behind and his hope that they are doing OK with a new family. All talk about friends, schools and communities left behind. In the course of our "chats" the teens became convinced that they have a reason for being where they are, and that they should give back to every community, post and school they have been placed at.

Right now, the 7 are doing volunteer work on post with younger military children. Most are even willing to dress up as Elves and help younger kids decorate cookies for a Kris Kringle day in December which will be sponsored by MWR. All 7 are scheduled to help out at the local animal shelter in Junction City, and the school has agreed to provide service learning hours to those teens that chose to serve.

Way to go teens. I have often wondered why our news station, newspapers and other media do not feature teens like the Junction City High school Brat Chatters. These young people make me proud to be an MFLC and proud to be an American.
